Going forward, as monsoon activity slowed in Sep'24, we expect some improvement in electricity output. Further, as government spending has seen picking up pace, we expect revival in construction activity and thus increase in output of related products. Also, as festive and harvest season begins, and base effect turns more favorable, we expect headline IIP growth to pick up in the coming months.

IIP growth steady: IIP growth fell by (-) 0.1%, following 4.7% growth in Jul'24, (downwardly revised from 4.8%). This was much lower than BoB's estimate of 0.5% increase. Base effect was also at play (10.9% in Aug'23). Due to the same reason, both mining (-4.3% versus 3.8% in Jul'24) and electricity (-3.7% versus 7.9%) output recorded a decline in Aug'24. Apart from the base effect, continued rains in Aug'24 also impacted electricity demand and mining activity. Manufacturing production also slowed (1% versus 4.4%).

Within manufacturing, a total of 14 sub-sectors noted slower growth in Aug'24, and 9 sub-sectors recorded improvement in growth. Major drag in production was visible on account of sectors like machinery and other transport equipment, basic/fabricated metal & products, motor vehicles and electrical equipment. On the other hand, production of food products, textiles and apparels improved in Aug'24. Textile sector may have garnered momentum due to political tensions in Bangladesh at that time.

This implies, on FYTD basis (Apr-Aug), IIP growth this year (4.2%) is slightly lower than what was seen last year during the same period (6.2%). Main drag to overall growth has come from slowdown in output of mining (4.8% versus 8.3%) and manufacturing (3.6% versus 6%). In contrast, electricity output has remained higher in this fiscal so far (7.1% versus 5.4%) due to record summer heat this year.

Use-based classification: Within use-based, primary goods (-2.6% versus 5.9% in Jul'24) and consumer non-durables (-4.5% versus -4.3%) recorded a decline in output in Aug'24, while other sub-heads noted moderation.
