Index Trading View

- Amid negative global cues, Nifty witnessed renewed selling pressure, declining by 486 points on Friday to close below the 23,000 mark. In case of an initial bounce on the monthly expiry, this zone is likely to act as an immediate resistance. A sell-on-rise strategy appears more appropriate as long as the index sustains below 23,000.
- Bank Nifty also came under pressure, slipping sharply and closing near the day's low. The 51,800 level is seen as an immediate support for Monday, and a breakdown below this level could intensify the downside momentum. The short-term trend remains bearish as long as the index trades below 53,000.

Sector Analysis

- Crude above $110–115 is significantly negative for India, likely driving inflation higher and widening the current account deficit. It shall negatively impact sectors like OMCs, aviation (InterGlobe Aviation), paints (Asian Paints), and chemical companies due to rising input costs. On the other hand, upstream players like Oil and Natural Gas Corporation and Oil India Limited are expected to benefit from elevated crude prices.
- A sharply weaker rupee may lead to FII outflows, adding pressure on equities, though it could support export-oriented sectors like IT. Nifty IT Index has approached its long-term upward sloping trendline support and has shown resilience over the past couple of weeks by closing on a positive note. However, on the daily timeframe, a decisive upward move is still awaited, which would provide stronger conviction for a sustainable bounce back.
